Current Comment

The water situation in the Santa Clara valley grows more and more acute, and the people are becoming more and more eager to do something about it before the land reverts to desert. Halfway measures will not do; percolation areas were a good start, but now we need to more thoroughly conserve the waters which have for years been running from the surrounding mountains into the bay.

We talked recently with a San Francisco business man who had evidently given the matter some consideration, and he brought to our attention the availability of NRA funds for such projects, and mentioned the feasibility of damming up the creeks in the Santa Cruz mountains to form reservoirs. Probably a good many people have given thought to the possibilities of storing water on the east side of the hills; why not on the other side, too?

Our San Franciscan suggested that water, more plentiful on the far side of the range than here, be stored in reservoirs, and brought back to this side of the hills by way of a tunnel or bore. Frankly, this was a new idea to the writer, and the more we think of it the better we like it. Keeping in mind the cost of other big water storage projects, the storing of water on both sides of the Santa Cruz mountains for use in the Santa Clara valley might well be comparatively inexpensive.

Regardless of the cost, however, steps should be taken to provide for an adequate supply of irrigation water for this valley. Without water the garden spot of California will, sooner or later, go to pot, and with it homes and other investments worth millions of dollars.

At the present time, we are informed, Santa Clara valley ranchers are unable to get federal loans on their land due to its proximity to the ocean and the fact that army engineers have reported that some time our underground water supply might become polluted with sea water. On the other hand, if we had a sure, adequate, and visible water supply, it would probably become possible for valley agriculturalists to secure life-saving loans from the federal government.

"Boy Kills Father Protecting Mother In Family Row" is getting to be a too frequent headline in the daily press. Whenever ma and pa decide to enjoy a few rounds of private battle—one of the perogatives of marriage — sonny-boy sneaks off, gathers in father's artillery, and protects his mother by downing the old gentleman.

In some few cases, where the father is actually beating the lady of the house, this form of homicide may be justifiable, particularly if there is an immediate threat to the mother's life. In other instances, we are convinced, such a situation is seized as an excuse by a youth, who has frequently been the recipient of well-deserved disciplinary measures meted out by his dad, to get rid of at least half of the existing parental authority. Strange, too, how many of the victims are stepfathers.

In Chicago Monday President Roosevelt told the American Legion boys in convention that they would have to reconcile themselves to getting the same deal accorded the rank and file of common citizens. It is gratifying to note that the President's remarks were cheered.

Recent recovery legislation provided for a cut in funds doled out, one way or another, to ex-service men. Roosevelt demanded it—and

Prune-Cot Assn. Winds Up Year's Crop Pay Checks

The California Prune and Apricot Growers association announced today the completion of final accounting on the 1932 prune crop delivery to its members. The association has a large temporary force employed in the computation of this payment and checks aggregating $675,000 will go forward to association members as rapidly as the individual accounts can be closed out. In line with the usual policy of the association, it was announced that no checks would be mailed until the accounting is complete, and all growers will get their payments at the same time.

Commenting on the final payment and the handling of the 1932 crop, C. D. Cavallaro, general manager of the association stated: "The further payment will bring to the membership $5 to $40 a ton more in cash on the various grades and classifications. On an average assortment the grower will receive about $15 per ton. The proportionate payment is generally increased on the larger sizes.

"A feature of this payment is the completion of returns on the off-grade fruit, on which both the pool and the association are making a total payment of from $15 to $35 per ton on the various grades.

"Including the members' credit in the capital fund of the association, the returns average slightly better than the opening price of the united organization last year. This is the goal for which we have been working throughout the season. Throughout the early months of marketing the 1932 crop it did not seem possible that we would net opening prices and we had no conception of such an excellent return; however, since the early spring of 1933, we have enjoyed until very recently a steadily improving market."

LEROY ANDERSON WILL TALK WATER AT CHAMBER MEET

Members of the Campbell chamber of commerce will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight at the community hall. The meeting was postponed from last night in order that a number of business men, out of town Tuesday night, could be present.

The water situation will be discussed as a preliminary to the water conservation meeting which will be held Friday night at the grammar school. Leroy Anderson, long an ardent worker in the cause of water conservation, will be present to answer questions concerning the problem.

A report on collections for the police fund will be given by Secretary Dan Yeager, and other routine business will be attended to.

Church Supper

Group 1 of the Congregational church guild will serve a supper Thursday, Oct. 12, 6:30 p. m., at the church. Tickets may be procured from any member of that group. An old fashioned Seth Parker sing will be held after supper.

John D. Crummey To Address Water Conservation Meet

A meeting, under the auspices of the Campbell Citizens' League on Government and Taxation, will be held at the grammar school Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the water situation.

A committee consisting of E. A. Barker, William Finnemore, Geo. Fitzgerald and T. J. Henderson, appointed at a recent meeting to study the situation, will make a detailed report on their findings, and offer their ideas on what measures should be taken to conserve the valley's water supply.

People from all over the valley are invited to the meeting, as the subject of water conservation is of vital interest to every resident of Santa Clara valley. Already work has begun on the Coyote dam, and the reconstruction of the Page dam and canal in Los Gatos creek is expected to afford some measure of relief for at least a part of this community.

John D. Crummey of the Bean Spray company will present a plan that has been forming for months. There will be other well-known speakers from all over the county.

Fish Stories Feature Kiwanis Dinner At Capitola Last Night

By Heck

A score of members of the local Kiwanis club Tuesday evening journeyed to Capitola where they held their weekly meeting.

The gang was met in Capitola by Mayor Herold Morton, Privy Councilor Duke Morgan and Alderman S. N. Hedegard. A Spanish dinner was immediately enjoyed at a local restaurant.

The principal speaker of the evening was Capt. George Mitchell, owner of a fleet of fishing boats operating off the Capitola wharf. Captain Mitchell gave many interesting experiences of his 30 years of activity on the sea and as a fisherman.

Members of the club talked on ingenious methods employed by them to catch fish—everything from snowballs to toe dancing. The program was entirely a fishing one —and very "fishy" it was, too.

Following dinner the party retired to Herold Morton's cottage on the Soquel creek where all joined in hilarious games of various kinds including tricks, puzzles, and the more serious game of auction. The evening was interspersed with fishing and camping stories, exciting experiences, and jokes.

Kiwanians declared the meeting to be one of the most enjoyable affairs in the history of the club.

Ralph Hyde was chairman, and made all arrangements for the party.

GROWERS GET GOOD RETURNS ON CLING CROP

The work of buying the surplus of No. 1 cling peaches by the cling peach control committee is practically completed throughout the state. A survey made in the last two or three days by the control committee's certified accountant indicates that there has been purchased by the committee approximately 40,000 tons of No. 1 peaches at the agreement price of $15 on the trees. Roughly, the total quantity put into cans are packed directly into fruit salad is about 230,000 tons, making the total crop of No. 1 peaches in the state about 270,000 tons. It may possibly run as high as 275,000 tons when the books are finally balanced.

If every canner pays his growers $20 per ton for the fruit supplied by these growers to the canner, the total return on the harvested basis for the No. 1 peaches grown in the state will be approximately $5,500,000. Last year, the cash return was estimated to have been less than a million dollars. Thus, the fact that the government, growers and canners united in a control plan this year resulted in a remarkable increase in return to growers. Both years there was a heavy surplus, but this year that surplus was purchased and the market thereby maintained, whereas, last year thousands of tons of No. 1 peaches went unharvested and no return was made for them to the grower.

The accounting office of the peach control committee is busily engaged in collecting deficiencies from caners to cover the purchase of the surplus and in clearing payments to growers. Already, materially more than sufficient money is in California banks to pay for all of the surplus bought, but there will be some delay in making payments. The reason for the delay is

Community Council Plans Chest Drive For Early November

The annual meeting of the Campbell Community council was called to order Friday evening, Sept. 29, by President Roy Archibald. The minutes of last year's meeting were read and approved.

Order of business was led by election of officers and directors for the year 1933-34 as follows: President, W. R. Coupland; vice president, G. S. Robson; recording secretary, Mrs. Gordon Ainsley, and financial secretary, G. E. Farley. Directors include Mrs. H. C. Smith, Mrs. Marion Cox, Walter Stray, C. B. Field, C. H. Whitman, S. N. Hedegard, and R. H. Hyde.

The meeting was then turned over to the new president, Mr. Coupland, who introduced Fred Morrison of the county community chest. Mr. Morrison explained what may be expected of the chest this year, and presented data on federal relief program and chest work.

Reports of various organizations connected with the local community chest were made. Mrs. Rice and Mr. Whitman, for the Campbell relief society, stated that they had spent $645 to date this year, mentioning $20 a month to the grammar school, $12 a month to Cambrian, and about $4.50 a month to Moreland grammar school. The balance was expended for supplies for needy families in the district.

Walter Stray reported for the Boy Scout committee, and Mr. Farley, in the absence of C. B. Field, reported for the trustees of the Boy Scout-Campfire building.

Other reports were those of Mrs. Smith for the library association, and G. E. Farley, financial secretary.

After considerable discussion the year's budget was set at the following figures: Campbell Relief society, $700; Campbell Library association, $500; Boy Scout building, $100; Santa Clara county community chest, $650, making a total of $1,950.

It was announced that the drive for funds would start. Oct. 31, and continue through Nov. 9. A manager has not yet been selected, but the council feels confident that whoever is named for this important post will be able to put the campaign over in the manner to which Campbell has long been accustomed.

At this meeting it was also announced that Mrs. W. I. Merrill had resigned the secretaryship of the Campbell Relief society after years of generous service to the community, and that Mrs. Ethel Davis had been elected to carry on her work.

ENROLLMENT AT CAMPBELL SCHOOLS AT NORMAL MARK

Now that the prunes are almost all taken care of, the students at Campbell high have settled down to the regular full day routine of work. Last week there were only four hours of school a day. The enrollment is now 342, and student activities have been organized.

At the grammar school enrollment has increased to 735 pupils, which is the same as last year. All classes are large, and pupils are well launched for the year.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

Meet California's newest but largest farm body—the Agricultural Council of California!

Undoubtedly you've been introduced before, but a new name seems to require a new introduction.

Agricultural Council of California, to clarify the matter quickly, was formerly the Agricultural Legislative Committee of California.

In making its bow to the public under a new name which more aptly and clearly designates the type of service which it seeks to render to California agriculture, the Council announces that the change is "in name only."

Objectives, purposes and policies are unchanged; officers remain the same.

Largest of all California farmer-controlled organizations, the council will continue to represent the same group of 31 farm cooperative and farm commodity bodies, with a membership of more than 70,000 farmers, producing and marketing approximately $150,000,000 worth of agricultural products annually.

The main purpose of the council, as with the Agricultural Legislative committee, will be to act as a clearing house for problems of common interest to agriculture, and especially to cope with public problems of farm cooperatives and commodity organizations, it was emphasized by C. C. Teague, president of the group, in announcing the change of name. Desirous of cooperating with the other statewide farm bodies, the organization has, in fact, made it a policy to open all of its meetings to the presiding officers of the state farm bureau federation, the state grange and the California Farmers' union, thereby creating a real forum in California for the discussion of agricultural problems.

"Essentially the agricultural legislative committee has functioned as the watchdog of the farmer, both at meetings of the state legislature and at meetings of the national congress in Washington," said President Teague.

"The Agricultural Council of California will seek to serve the farmer in identically the same manner. The change in name was voted to establish a designation typical of the services performed. Actually this group is the farmer's council table—his representative in all public issues of vital bearing on agriculture.

"Under the old name, there was a disposition to confuse the organization with a committee of the legislature, or to consider it as a branch of the government. In fact, however, it has no official connection with the government, but has, on the other hand, been the farmer's intermediary in affairs of government. The new name, we believe, will more clearly indicate its purpose and objectives and eliminate this source of confusion."

Established in 1919, the council has been a powerful factor in securing the enactment of the bulk of California's progressive farm legislation, much of which has since been used as a pattern for farm codes in other states.

The council, like the committee which preceded it, will be nonpartisan, neither supporting nor opposing candidates for public office, but keeping California farmers constantly in touch with the records of all public officials.

Groups represented in the council include the Calavo Growers of California, California Almond Growers exchange, California Canning Peach Growers, California Cattlemen's association, California Cotton Cooperative association,ltd., California Dairymen's federation, California Date Growers association, California Fruit exchange, California Fruit Growers exchange, California Lima Bean Growers association, California Milk Producers association, Californonia Pear Growers association, California Prune and Apricot Growers association, California Prune pool, California Turkey Growers association, California Walnut Growers association, California Wool Growers association, Central California Berry Growers association, Challenge Cream and Butter association, Co-Operative Dairymen's league, Farmers Cooperative exchange, inc., Fontana Producers Egg and Supply company, Hayward Poultry Producers association, inc., Porterville Poultry association, Poultrymen's Cooperative Association of Southern California, Poultry Producers of Central California, Rice Growers Association of California, San Diego Co-Operative Poultry association, Sebastopol Apple Growers union, Sun-Maid Raisin Growers of California, and the Tri-Valley Packing association.

Officers of the council for the coming year, all of whom held the same positions with the agricultural legislative committee during the year just ended, are as follows: President, C. C. Teague, Santa Paula; first vice president, John Lawler, San Francisco; second vice president, J. J. Brennan, Loomis; executive secretary, Ralph H. Taylor, Sacramento.

NOW is the time to make a Fall check-up on LIGHTING IN YOUR HOME

HOW LONG has it been since you made a real check-up on the light in your home?

Empty sockets need fresh new lamps. Burned-out lamps, lamp bulbs darkened with long use should be replaced with fresh new lamps.

Nothing adds more to comfort in the after-dinner hours in the Fall and Winter as a cheerfully lighted home. Nothing is so decorative and yet so inexpensive as electric light. Check-up, light up, and give tired eyes a chance to see better.

Light up for cheerfulness. Let light bring out the beauty of room furnishings. Add life to your living room by having at least one floor or table lamp that throws light upward to illuminate the whole room. This is the best lighting of all to read by, and adds to the hospitality your home expresses to your guests.

See the better lamps of today now being displayed in stores everywhere and in all offices of this company. Then you will know why one of these lamps gives better light to see by than three or four lamps which merely look nice when lighted. Ask about the Special Purchase Terms now in effect.

Club Members Discuss Gardens, Hear Lib Report

"Winter Gardening" was the subject presented to the Country Woman's club at its meeting Monday under the direction of a committee of gardeners, Mesdames J. D. Blaine, Charlotte Sutter, and W. S. Shelley. Mrs. Laura Foster, named on the committee, was absent.

The opening number was a duo of appropriate songs sung by Mrs. R. H. Hyde, with Miss Katherine Wood at the piano. The selections were, "Thank God for A Garden" and "I Know A Lovely Garden."

Mrs. Sutter read an article in keeping with the gardening theme entitled, "Gathering Flowers."

A very complete paper on "Fall and Winter Gardening" was presented by Mrs. Shelley, who is especially interested in that phase of the fascinating work of beautification by planting.

Some items from her article on the many plants and shrubs to be started, planted or transplanted in the fall and early winter will be printed in a later issue of the Press.

The chairman told of the satisfaction derived from a wild flower garden, and then invited the ladies to participate in the plant and bulb exchange, to which many had contributed.

Artistically arranged bouquets demonstrated the variety of lovely flowers now blooming. A French bouquet on the officers' table contained about 15 different flowers, and in others were pastel shades of asters, gorgeous types of marigolds, tritonias, and the feathery sprays of white Michaelmas daisies.

During the business session many items of interest were presented. A report from Mrs. Field, chairman of the library committee, anent the pay shelf sponsored by the club indicated that it was meeting a need among readers. As soon as books have been rented enough times to repay their cost they will be placed on the free shelves as the property of the Campbell library. The success of the plan depends upon the patronage received. It is pointed out that frequent use of the pay department will make available books for which otherwise patrons might be forced to wait a long time.

Guest day will be observed on Oct. 16, and the chairman, Mrs. C. H. Whitman, mentioned some of the interesting plans for that day. Each member is asked to bring a guest, one who may be a prospective members is especially desired, but not necessary.

The president reported a few thoughts from the address given by Miss Seaman, state federation president, in San Jose Tuesday.

The coming "Harvest Festival" to be sponsored by all of the clubs in the county federation, under the leadership of Mrs. Dora Laughlin, was announced. It will take place Wednesday, Nov. 1, on the grounds of San Jose State college, where foodstuffs will be the principal articles for sale. This festival is designed to earn half of the year's quota to be raised for the student loan fund. Further details will be published as plans are perfected.

PROFESSORS HELP STUDENTS EARNING WAY THROUGH U.C.

Berkeley—How a student is being aided in making his way through the University of California in a novel manner, is told by one of the professors on the campus who is assisting President R. G. Sproul in such cases.

A young man who had been under the guidance of the professor last year came to see him, bringing another boy, also a sophomore. The second young man desired to obtain a loan. Asked his reasons, he said he was paying his way through college by milking two cows and selling the milk. Unfortunately, one cow was going dry and he had not sufficient milk to buy another cow.

The loans granted by the University not being sufficient, the professor told the story to one of his fellow faculey members, who has a small ranch near Berkeley. This second professor offered to sell the boy a cow, for which he could pay as he earned the money.

The one-man-two-cow dairy is again in full operation.

that the accounting department must search the title in each instance to be certain that the seller of the fruit is entitled to payment direct. With the purchasing already at an end, work is being concentrated on a quick clearance of title and payment to growers.

Advices from the field indicate that some growers still are under the impressian that no matter what the type of their contract may be with caners, they are insured payment of $20 per ton for the fruit they have delivered to him. While to this end the government and the committee are doing all in their power informally to assist canners in stepping up their selling prices on contracts made prior to the effective date of the agreement, the responsibility lies entirely on the canners themselves. The legal staff of th government has declared that a contract between a caner and a grower made bofore the effective date of the agreement is a legal document and cannot be attacked. Thus, any contracts between growers and canners which contemplate a price of less tthan $20 per ton must stand, unless the canner takes advantage of the opportunity offered him by the government to negotiate with the actual support of the government toward an increase in price on the finished product which will enable him to pay $20 a ton, or more.

Now that the collections from canners exceed 90 per cent of the total obligation, the control committee and the government are preparing to bring about collection through court action, or in some other manner, of the deficiencies, for otherwise the fund would be out of balance and growers and canners would be affected adversely.

ALL GUILD GROUPS MEET AT CHURCH THURS AFTERNOON

A general meeting of the Congregational guild was held Thursday afternoon in the church parlors with the ladies of Group 2 acting as hostesses. All three groups were well represented.

The rooms were bright with autumn-tinted vines, and the yellow and orange hues of lantana, French marigolds, and lion-tails.

Miss Jessie Lewis, president, presided over the business meeting at which the secretaries and treasurers' reports showed very satisfactory financial and social conditions.

A nominating committee including Mrs. Carl Johnson, chairman, Mrs. B. O. Curry, Mrs. A. W. Page, Mrs. T. A. Cutting and Mrs. A. B. Covey, was appointed to report at the December meeting, as also was a committe to determine the plan for selecting members of the groups into which the guild is divided. These ladies are Mrs. F. R. Anderson, Mrs. Horace H. Person, Mrs. David Sanders, Mrs. W. F. Grattan, and Mrs. Dan Clark.

Mrs. Verna Lusher conducted a guessing contest, the answering words to which ended in "cate." Mrs. C. E. Farman, Mrs. G. E. Jeffers, and Mrs. C. L. Johnson tied in their answers, and Mrs. Jeffers won in the draw.

In guessing the number of small stones in a glass jar Mrs. H. C. Smith was the one who happened to guess the exact number. Prizes for these games were individual tea pots in yellow and green.

Refreshments were served cafeteria style, with Mrs. Hiram C. Hutton and Mrs. Marshall A. Ross pournig tea at an attractively appointed table, with a large basket of fruit as the centerpiece.

Mrs. Frank H. Cutting is leader of the entertaining group, and her especial assistants were Mesdames A. W. Page, B. H. Lusher, B. Seagrave, Elver Bohnett, and Nellie Mills.

congress slashed $300,000,000 off the veterans' appropriation.

The writer is anxious to see every disabled veteran, every orphan and widow of American soldiers, get a fair deal from the government. On the other hand, we want also to see the government get a fair deal from the ex-soldiers. Ever since the American Legion became "legislation conscious" they have maintained a ruinous lobby in Washington. Catering to the demands of a distinctly minority group, the lobby heaped demand after demand upon the heads of quivvering and frightened congress until the annual cost of caring for World war veterans reached the astounding total of $1,000,000,000, and the treasury of the United States faced total annihilation.

This condition has existed, or rather continued to exist, the past few years more because of the reluctance of lobbyists to lose their fat jobs than from the desires of individual Legionnaires, many of whom are not in sympathy with the grasping ways of that organization. Others, fearful that the Legion will become another G. A. R., would cheerfully forget the whole thing, given the chance.

FAMOUS JAPANESE DANCER TO SHOW AT PALO ALTO

Michio Ito, famous Japanese dancer, whose art is in a class by itself, with a style distinctly his own, will be presented in dance concert at the new Palo Alto Community theater in Rinconada park, Palo Alto, on Thursday, Oct. 5, assisted by Lillian Powell, premiere danseuse, Betty Jordan, Marjorie Booth and Warren Crosby, with Anton Rolland as pianist. This program will be presented under the auspices of the Community Players of Palo Alto.

Ito has mare dance history by his unique visualization of music. His dance presentations, according to the New York Herald-Tribune, "are marvels of spontaneity, of spiritual and physical accord." Some of Ito's greatest successes have been won in the dances of spain, notably his "Tango" (Albeniz), which has aroused extraordinary acclaim, and which will be included in his program at Palo Alto.

One of the most delightful dances of Michio Ito was inspired by the great Pavlowa herself, while the Japanese artist was having tea with her one afternoon in London. With charming graciousness, Pavlowa offered to dance for Ito, and following an exquisite rendition of Delibes' "Pizzicati" on her toes, asked Ito if he would not dance for her. Having no music, Ito asked the pianist to play the same selection again, and planting his feet firmly on the floor, he danced the entire number, using only his arms and hands.

ILLEGAL USE OF FUNDS RAPPED BY RICHARDSON

OFFICE OF BUILDING AND LOAN COMMISSIONER
San Francisco

Ray L. Riley, State Controller
Sacramento, Calif.
Dear Mr. Riley:

I have your letter of the 22d inst., enclosing a copy of chapter 991 of the statutes of the 1933 legislative session, which shows that $335.75 was diverted "out of any money in the building and loan inspection fund in the state treasury * * * to pay the claim of the chief accounting officer of the department of finance against the state of California."

I want to protest against the taking of $335.75 out of our fund, on the following grounds:

1. That this act was surreptitiously passed through the legislature without notice to me, as the title is misleading and contains no fererence to the building and loan inspection fund;

2. That the claim is for the illegal and unconstitutional purpose of using our fund to pay an illegal claim of Clair Barnes, an employee of the department of finance;

3. That the illegal claim of Barnes is for expenses incurred in a personal suit brought against him by investors in the Guarantee Building and Loan Association of Hollywood (the Beesemyer association) for damages, because Clair Barnes, as an examiner for the building and loan commissioner, had failed to discover the Beesemyer defalcations when examining the Guaranty association;

4. That Barnes admitted his failure to discover the Beesemyer defalcation, amounting to more than $8,000,000, and when asked by newspaper men why he had overlooked this large sum, made his now famous and historic answer: "Ask Einstein."

I hereby request that the $335.75 be restored to the building and loan inspection fund, as this fund is paid by the building and loan associations, and its is unjust that they should be penalized in this manner.

Yours respectfully,
Friend W. Richardson
Bldg. & Loan Commissioner

COAST ROUTE IN VERY GOOD SHAPE

The Coast route, U. S. No. 101, from San Francisco to Los Angeles, is in exceptionally good condition at this time, states L. L. Norris, touring director, National Automobile club.

The recently completed six miles of new highway just south of San Ardo affords easy driving and the many other improvements on this route during the past year or so makes it a fast as well as scenic way to the southland.

While there are several roads between Ventura and Los Angeles, one of the most pleasant and beautiful is the coast route, which parallels the ocean shore for many miles until reaching Santa Monica.

CAMPBELL STORE TO STAY IN FIELD, SAYS LOCAL MAN

Rumors that Bernhardt's Campbell store would close some time this month were spiked today by Al Bulmore, whose butcher shop occupies a part of the building.

According to Mr. Bulmore, each occupant of the building, including himself, the vegetable dealer, and the operators of the fountain, has acquired his own equipment, and will hereafter rent independently of the store. He said that under the new arrangement the grocery department, operated by Bernhardt for the past several years, will undoubtedly continue.
